

Consulting by Degrees Program

A smarter planet doesn't just build itself. It will take the effort and dedication of smart people everywhere. That's where you come in.

IBM's consulting business is looking for top talent to join us in this endeavor.

New entry-level consultants will be a part of Consulting by Degrees:

- A world-class leadership and development program
- Designed to groom top, entry-level business consultants into tomorrow's leaders

Participation in the program provides you the opportunity to:

- Fast track your career as part of an elite development program unparalleled in the market
- Join a community of talented consultants and contribute to a dynamic team environment
- Work on a diverse range of client projects from the world's biggest and best brands
- Benefit from personalised career planning and mentoring
- Gain leadership and development skills through a defined education path

Do you think the world can work smarter?

We're looking for high potential, entry level consultants

- Strong leadership and adaptability, with willingness to readily take ownership of highly challenging tasks and problems
- Thorough and analytical, with capability to apply logic to solve problems
- Ability to handle multiple tasks concurrently and meet deadlines
- Drive to overcome the most challenging or difficult obstacles and look for ways to improve results
- Effective interpersonal skills with ability to collaborate effectively, strengthening relationships to achieve win-win solutions
- Powerful communication skills, in both English and your home country language, to deliver a compelling and engaging response
- A passion for innovative ideas, coupled with the ability to understand and assimilate different points of view

What Steps Do You Need to Take for Interview Consideration?

- Successful candidates should be 2012 or recent 2011 graduates and must have plans to return to and reside in your home country following graduation.
 - You must list your home country on your resume
 - India – send your resume to recruiter Jesu Mathew jesumath@in.ibm.com

