

What is your field? Why did you choose this field?

I am a Civil Engineer by training. I am in the IT field. My first job coming out of university had to do with computer-aided design applied in the building of low-income housing.

Is the engineering/science/technology field different than what you thought it would be?

To me, engineering/science/technology are all related to solving problems and making things better using different means.