IBM Systems Lab Services and Training

Improving service, driving down costs and managing risk of your IT infrastructure using our deep technical skills and training expertise.

Who we are

IBM® Systems Lab Services and Training is composed of experts who develop and deploy solutions across IBM's systems family offerings. From in-depth product expertise, to knowledge transfer, to platform-specific hardware and software solutions, we're here for you!

“Our success depends on a strong collaborative relationship with the development labs and other IBM service organizations. We work together to ensure client satisfaction and success.”

Kyle VanKleeck, Vice President, IBM Systems Lab Services and Training

IBM Systems Lab Services and Training is improving service by aligning with the key initiatives involved in helping build a smarter planet, and it delivers a portfolio of services that can help create a Dynamic Infrastructure®. This organization focuses on driving down costs by designing flexible infrastructures while at the same time managing risk through the use of deep technical skills and training expertise.

These skills cover optimization, virtualization, data center services, Power™ services, high-end servers, storage and more. IBM Systems Lab Services and Training works across all geographies helping IBM clients evolve IT solutions.

Not Just Any Services

IBM Systems Lab Services and Training is part of the IBM labs—we help build the products. Take advantage of that knowledge to help achieve the goals of your technology and solution investment!

We collaborate with other IBM service organizations such as Global Technology Services, Global Business Services, Sales & Distribution, Software Group and IBM Business Partners.
